Loren Legarda: Single mom has no FG

By Michael Lim-Urac

A "24/7" PRESIDENT?

To Sen. Loren Legarda, a single mother with two teenage sons, that could be the most persuasive argument for putting her in Malacañang. "I am a mother to the country. I am married to the country," said Legarda, one of the most ardent of the half-dozen or so senators vying to run for the highest office in 2010, at a recent dinner with business editors and reporters. "I have no first gentleman (FG). I have no husband, no boyfriend (though many boyfriends)," said the senator whose marriage to homicide convict and former Batangas governor Tony Leviste was, according to her, annulled by the family court last year.

Legarda, 49, has yet to formally announce her candidacy but the dinner—which she host-

New party for Noli

MVP for VP? It's a long shot, says analyst

SOMEWHERE Vice President Noli de Castro reportedly will be out of there once the merger of Liberal-Progress is done and he will go "home."

MANILA

By Philip C. Tubera

VICE PRESIDENT NOLI DE CASTRO WILL NOT BE WITHOUT a party for long and may even get management while Manuel V. Pangalanan as his backer, a political analyst said yesterday.

Speaking at a forum held at the Asian Institute of Management in Makati City, Tony Geracitano, executive director of the PIAR (Political Research Applied Research) Foundation, said "it is now party" or "movement" might be launched next month that would offer De Castro his political vehicle to secure the presidency.

"A new party/movement is in the cards and Noli will be offered to head it with possible support from Manny Pangalanan. Armed with new allies, Noli is now in the running," Geracitano said at the forum titled "The 2010 Elections, Assessments and Analysis. A Year Ahead."

He said that with the merger of the ruling Lakas and Kumpi parties, "De Castro will go elsewhere," and that Defense Secretary Gilbert Teodoro, Interior

Lozada's new cause: Toilets for jailbirds

By Pamela Acasandora Cruz

IT SEEMS THAT EVERYTHING BECOMES "Noli" Lozada Jr. touches turns into a cause.

The whistle-blower spent just 22 hours behind bars at the Manila Police District last week and already, the jail inmates have found in him an ally.

"This got us to donate two toilet bowls for the inmates' use and supplied us to start our own prison apostolate," St. Mary John Macanatan, co-chair of the Association of Major Religious Superiors in the Philippines, told the business on Friday. "We'll start off by restoring a library in the prison to take care of the inmates' legal needs."

Another project, according to Macanatan, is to provide "at least one substantial meal a day" to the 29 inmates at the prison who, Lozada had observed in his brief stay with them, made do with the leftovers of his first two meals.

As in recent jails, the inmates pitch in with money from visiting relatives to raise a daily budget of P500 to feed all of them.

Reverend Macanatan: "For his quick mind, breakfast, Jan refused to take anything unless the other inmates had the same food. We ended up feeding them all. I'm going to ask the different religious orders to take turns in contributing food sharing."

The man said she was conscripted as well to make urgent calls to the inmates' relatives on their behalf. (No mobile phones are allowed inside the jail cell.)

The hard-bark stories he heard during his brief stay in jail also prompted Lozada to donate to his fellow inmates the proceeds of the "Manila Bay Lozada" campaign intended to raise P10,000 bail.

"There should be enough to bail out some of them," he said of the P50,000 raised so far.

Lozada was arrested on April 29 on petty charges filed by Michael Debesa, a former chief of staff of President

Nanay Dionesia: She suffers with her son, blow by blow

By Constanza C. Tejero

DIONESIA DAPRIMAN MAGLONA, affectionately called "Nanay Dionesia" by Filipinos as if she were the mother of the nation, has a strong inclination to pain, but there is one pain she herself admits she could hardly endure.

World boxing champ Manny Pacquiao's 50-year-old mother was said to have fainted away ahead of his nemesis Ricky Hatton by the second round last week in Las Vegas. And this without even having seen her fight live on the ring or on TV, as she was, like him, in the company of her people largely seeing the Holy Spirit.

It could be a joke, but it reveals a lot. A salient point about how fatalistic a character she has become to many, but at the core of the joke is a more human one: How a mother could suffer for her child. In every fight, she is acutely inflicting with her son, blow by blow, as she feels her pain almost physical.

FLOWERS AND KISSES.

That's what Michelle would give her mom, Crissy Arcego, 44, on Mother's Day.

Not this year. Crissy's youngest daughter, her three-year battle with leukemia, she was only 25. At noon last Sunday, the respirator was finally removed. Michelle and Crissy held hands. A few minutes later, Michelle let go of her mother's hand. Crissy said: "The really made sure her father was home safe before she left."

Even from her hospital bed, Michelle sought to see her father. Roger, 46, who was captured by Somali pirates last year by writing a letter of appeal to his captors. The pirates reportedly beheaded Roger when they received her appeal.

Despite her illness, Michelle remained strong. Crissy smiled. She taught her daughter to children in their neighborhood in Antipolo City even as her girl pushed chemotherapy sessions. In her hospital bed, Michelle painted colorful flowers, and was preparing for her first one-on-one session to raise funds for her expensive treatment and medication for leukemia.

The business was a worry to Michelle's father. It also caught the attention of Manila-based volunteer group Doctors International, Inc. (IN DEATH 42

HARI: STILL UNSTOPPABLE

Giving up is obviously not in Hyundai and HARI's vocabulary, and there's no way a crash can stop their drive.

Hyundai and HARI (Hyundai Asia Resources, Inc.), the official distributor of Hyundai vehicles in the Philippines, continue to exhibit great tenacity amidst a challenging market landscape with a string of victories here and abroad.

In the Philippine auto industry, HARI continues to assert its standing as a formidable challenger, securing the Top 6 position in overall rankings with total sales of 5,138 units for the first four months of the year. Among HARI's lineup of ultra-compact vehicles, its offerings in the Passenger 200 (PC) segment and Light Commercial Vehicle (LCV) segment stood out as the November distributor's best-sellers in April.

- In the PC segment, HARI remains counted as Top 5, securing 5.1% market share with sales of 1,170 units.
- HARI's Grand Staircase once again dominated the Passenger 200 (PC) segment, securing Hyundai's top-selling family car to number one in PC rankings with overall share of 28.5% (April year-to-date).
- The Tucson continues its aggressiveness in the Compact SUV segment by securing top place in Compact SUV rankings for the months of March and April and earning 20.2% growth on a year-to-date basis.

Securing 55 of its memberships in HARI reflected another win against economic headwinds in its CR segment led by Hyundai Motor's

RP far from 'best place in world' for moms, survey finds

THE PHILIPPINES IS NOT THE "BEST place in the world for mothers."

According to a report by the United States-based nonprofit group, Save the Children Inc., the Philippines ranked 42 out of 75 "less developed" countries in its annual survey on the state of the world's mothers. The country slipped four notches from No. 38 in the same survey last year.

In pointing that out yesterday, the PRCapex called on the government to do more to address the country's "motherhood" ranking in the 13th annual State of the World's Mothers 2009 report.

"Despite great advances in medical science, 15-17 million in the Philippines still die from childbirth complications every year," said Capex, a mouth of two. The national rate of 152 deaths per 1,000 live births is one of the highest maternal mortality rates in Asia.

The 76 from 35 Filipino mothers are readily reported to die of birth-related causes each Sunday, May 10, when the nation would observe Mother's Day.

Capex said.

Based on such the global celebration of Mother's Day, the report features key indicators relating to health, education and economic status in each country to rank the "best place for mothers" in the world.

Capex is chair of the Women's Economic Council and president of the Council on Women. The organization of the United States.

"We are encouraging instead of adhering with respect to these goals. These are not made on Mother's Day that should mean more than the usual for women because we recognize, headed as it is by a woman president who is supposed to be the mother of the nation," she said.

Grading 154 nations, the survey came out with Indonesia the Most Developed (Tier 1), least Developed (Tier 2), and Least Developed countries (Tier 3) based on how each country ranks its economic and health.

The Mother's Index is calculated as the weighted average of children's well-being (30 percent), women's health status (20 percent), women's educational status (20 percent), women's economic status (20 percent), and women's political status (10 percent).

Sweden, Norway and Australia were the top three countries in Tier 1, Cuba, Israel and Argentina in Tier 2, while Indonesia, Cape Verde and Uganda in Tier 3.

Afghan leader demands end to US air strikes

WASHINGTON—AFGHAN PRESIDENT HAMID KARZAI has demanded an end to US air strikes, which he said killed as many as 130 civilians earlier in the week and were infuriating the public.

As US and Afghan negotiators try to resume dialogue here, the bloodshed, Karzai strongly rejected US support that Taliban insurgents often charge. Karzai said that US strikes are not acceptable. Karzai said US strikes during the night in Afghanistan, "We believe through that of air strikes are an effective way of fighting terrorism, that air strikes reflect peace."

There has been no indication from the US military that it killed civilians in the strikes, which were called by the Taliban from their sanctuaries in Pakistan. Karzai placed responsibility for the deaths squarely on the shoulders of the US military. "This was definitely caused by misinformation," he said. When asked if he is still calling for US strikes, he simply responded, "Yes." He did, however, recognize that Taliban use civilians as "human shields." Karzai—who often declares to be a moderate—also threatened to sue the US military at the end of a report in the United States that had been seen to build support for the fight against Taliban and al-Qaida operations across Afghanistan and Pakistan. In meeting with Karzai, US President Barack Obama pledged more civilian to US military operations, and Secretary of State Hillary Clinton vowed to report to the public.

Karzai said that the US military "is not a good neighbor" but did not ask a separate US aid and Afghan nations were reported to announce dialogue from their investigations on Saturday. Smart Gilas RP five faces tough stint

By June Nazare

EXPECTATIONS WILL BE QUITE LOW FOR the Smart Gilas Pilipinas' National Team, which is entering this country's season in the FIBA Asian Champions Cup.

But for a fledgling team getting up for a big, get season ahead, trying to adjust, balance weight and doing battle against the best club teams in Asia for 10 days will be something to look forward to.

"We are optimistic and hopeful although it will be a tall order," said Samahang Basketbol ng Pilipinas executive director Neil Edo. "The team is young and inexperienced but we believe in them and fighting spirit."

Backed up by American G Gilas, the 15-player Smart Gilas RP team composed chiefly of volleyball athletes has been targeted against defending champion Iran, Lebanon, Korea and Taiwan in Group A of the "Champions" event slated May 15-26.

Team skipper Claro Yu, Mack Barrios, Max Gueo, Max Ramonal and Dylan Adlawan are expected to provide firepower for the National side from the 5-foot-10 Gilas.

Other members of the team are Greg Kingkong, Juan Salazar, Alvin Reyes, Ryan Sarmiento, RJ Javel, RJ Canalejo, Fred Lee, Jay Manzano, and Thelma Lim.

"The main idea is to give them exposure and prepare them for the 2011 FIBA Asia Championship," said Edo.

MAGNOLIA's head coach leads his team to the basket and off the court's floor. The team, however, managed to show its spirit in the play.

Cobra lethal foe for M'nolia

SAM TOLSON (Joe Jose) vs. Cobra (M'nolia)

By Carlo P. Tapia

BLOOD OZZED FROM THE eyebrow of Cobra Energy Drink point guard James Martinez after an elbow from Edwin Torres of Magnolia in the second quarter.

Torres' foul led to a foul out but Martinez returned to the court. He was only for a rugged 74-67 victory over the M'nolia in the start of their last-of-three quarterfinal series in the PSL PG First Limbo Cup on the Triunfo Sports Arena in Pasig City.

Fred Lee started to a smiling fourth-quarter match for Cobra, ending his streak with a hardball layup of his own and an 80-60 win with 40 seconds left that triggered up the win for the Energy Drinkers, who trailed by as many as 11 points in the third quarter.

Martinez neither found the perfect way to get back at the Wizards, setting a couple of easy, but not easy, points of a 10-2 lead that earned the game series.

Torres was ejected for elbowing Martinez at the 1:30 mark of the second period.

"This is a big win," said Cobra assistant coach Neil Barrios, who took over the coaching duties from Lavaris Chikopon, currently in the United States in search of personal matters. "We really prepared for this game after losing our last two games."

The Energy Drinkers can join top qualitative coach Benjie Nolasco, Lito and Pato in the semifinals with another victory in Game 3 on Tuesday.

Unreported sports of game, too, took the place of the physicality of the game. Barrios said.

Scoreless streak

The Energy Drinkers led the Wizards 40-30 in the first half of the match of the fourth period, while Lee and Martinez found their way to the basket in the second half. The win was beyond the win to win a 10-2 lead in a 10-2 lead.

The Wizards' defense was 40-30 in the first half of the match, while Lee and Martinez found their way to the basket in the second half. The win was beyond the win to win a 10-2 lead in a 10-2 lead.

Rey Liguera, quarterback when Martinez was being injured, made the most of his shot, finishing with 13 points.

But it was Lee, last season's star player, who drove the team.

He ended a jumper, and when a Martinez was being injured, made the most of his shot, finishing with 13 points.

"My mother was the best giving person I ever knew. And I learned from her that giving is selfish, pointing others ahead of oneself. In the greatest gift you can give, and mean powerful role model for children and others. And here it is so simple to do this right when I look at Jesus of the world, to this—from Glazed to Street Aspects to many others... And the manner of their generous lies in giving others before themselves. It's a lesson I learned in the final run of my own home growing up, and by that I am forever

May is month of Mary and Marian miracles

IN 1998, IN SIBANGAY, SEMBLA OF Ilongo, southern Cebu, there was an outbreak of dengue. More than 100 people were infected. The people in the area held a noisy crusade in the chapel where Our Lady of Fatima is venerated to ask for the Blessed Mother's help.

The town was saved and the people attributed it to the divine intervention of the Holy Mother.

Late, the statue of the Blessed Mother died twice on Aug. 17 and 21, Sept. 8, Oct. 12 and Dec. 30. There is said again twice on Sept. 8, 1999, the birthday of the Blessed Mother, and more recently on Sept. 8, 2007. Thousands witnessed the event.

Maverick Torres of Davao City was diagnosed with cancer of the spine with the CT scan showing that the cancer had metastasized to his lungs.

"After my surgery, I had heavy radiation and chemotherapy," Maverick says. "My niece told me about Sister Mary of Ilongo, so after my treatment, I repeatedly visited her to pray and ask for her intercession. I know that that Lord will see my Holy Mother's prayer!"

After a few months, Maverick had a CT scan and his doctor was pleased with the results, but he wanted to make sure by doing another CT scan after two months. The result was amazing. "The cancer in the lungs were gone," says Maverick, "as if a hand had gone inside my lungs to pull the cancer out."

PURELY PERSONAL

Josephine Duran

Maverick says, "I know that it was through Sister Mary that I was healed. Thank her Lord!"

Taking one can sit on one side of the church whereabout and visitors left by people who have been helped and cured. Please continue to pray again for us.

Any woman who can do it all is a woman who can do it all. It's not everyday, but it's a special day.

Let's wish, my little Athena

Why being a mom rocks

My little Athena has clearly picked up my flair for fancy outfits and accessories. Her birthday bash had a Fancy Nancy theme and was a sugar overload.

Keep her busy for the summer. I you too have some fun ideas at Inquirer.com. Study Center (all ages) (11-12/13/14) in Magellan Center.

Teacher Alice Enguerra says Athena is doing great and will study to study for big school by June. Inquirer.com also shows tutorials and study classes to be a great way to supplement schoolwork.

As a working mother with a full time schedule, it is difficult to have a young child. I'm happy that my husband, Dennis, picks up to keep Athena occupied while I work.

1. Take sixty years of dedication to quality.

Our love for making the best-tasting ice cream may have gotten bigger, but it has never gotten old. From being a small ice cream parlor in Manila to becoming an ice cream brand loved by millions in the Philippines, we're finding better and better ways to make our ice cream even more delicious, just for you.

4. Never forget who comes first and foremost.

Be it the new Caramel or the Vanilla Macaroon in Family Pack, each and every Selecta product begins with the one that inspires us to come up with the best and most delicious ice cream -- you.

2. Combine a commitment to use only the best and freshest ingredients.

It's a promise we make each and every day:
when it comes to the things that we love most, nothing but the best will do.
With our Selecta Gold Series, for instance, we paired with three of Manila's most acclaimed chefs and secured the world for the finest strawberries, hazelnuts, and chocolate huffles, to create a truly decadent ice cream experience.

3. Blend with passion for innovation.

We ask a lot of questions:
like, what if we could offer flavors no other ice cream has offered before? What if we could enjoy all of our favorite flavors for our birthdays? What if we could come up with a handy-dandy pack that the whole family could enjoy?
It's our passion for innovation that made us the first to introduce flavors like Cookies & Cream, Coffee
Crumble, and Queso Real, as well as novel ideas like 3-in-1's.

5. Serve with a lot of love.

Here at Selecta, we believe that the creamiest, most delicious ice cream is made with lots of laughter and loads of love. If you've ever wondered why you start smiling at the sight of your favorite Selecta ice cream, now you know why.

We had a small celebration for Athena at Hunter's Garden at Seward's (www.marxists.Usenet.com). She has already picked up my chair for fancy parties and seminars. Her Honey Honey-themed party was a major event with all the little girls, including sister stars Amanda and her friends, Rachel Gershwin's kids Lauren and Weston and Henry's sister Oliver Anne Lopez's twin girls and Isabella, watching along on their computers and couches.

It has been said that memory that needs ability to store, retain and recall information is a wonderful thing in everyday life. It is that place, where we intend to be all the things that make us feel good... about our selves, about the people near and dear to our hearts, about this otherwise crazy world in which we live.

Reyes' oasis now a family destination

By Alex T. Nguyen

IT KEPT EVERYTHING MULTIMILLION-DOLLAR businesses in business. Reyes' beach house in Colima, Jalisco, his architectural firm in the oceanfront business district.

For almost two years now, the resort, a vast landscape which took Reyes' dream from reality to reality, has been attracting carloads of families from Mexico and the United States who enjoy the architecture Reyes designed and built—a family-friendly, serene and modern oasis of private villas, swimming pools and a beachfront golf course.

Considered as the first in the country, the resort has a lot of guests, including the president of the United States, Barack Obama, and other high-profile guests.

"My partner Eric (Aguiar) and I have been in real estate for 10 years," says Reyes, "but we want to be doing a good job based on the number of repeat guests. We should have seen how business was going."

Reyes' first guest, a family from Mexico, the staff had to set up tents to accommodate the family. Reyes says he fully booked two weeks ago at Golden Beach, played from the residents of the Golden Beach.

From a section of the Reyes house in the ocean, a kitchen adjacent to the main house, and KTV rooms had to be created for its guests.

Guests who want to stay overnight can choose from 78 rooms, including two-bedroom family suites, but families and teenagers will enjoy with a beachfront pool and a beachfront pool.

Recharge

At the end of a long, hot day, house-boat residents can relax in the open-air, semi-private pool, which gives a prime view of the Pacific Ocean Sea and the golden yellow sunset.

On guests can choose to go fishing, boating, hiking or playing beach volleyball. They can also play golf and enjoy the view.

"I've had a number of media friends and they had a blast fishing for their food with their families," says Reyes. "You can catch kingfish and tilapia and have them cooked the way you want them."

Reyes, there are shows, including the band "SAGI" dancing, a musical performance dancing on a floating raft in the ocean, and beach parties with their own "Laka Laka" composed of a musical performance.

Investment

It's hard to imagine that the place, when it was first built in Reyes' first year, was almost empty. Reyes Aguiar, himself a successful businessman in the area, had discouraged Reyes from buying the property.

After much convincing and learning, Reyes bought the place in 1998. He had no idea what to do with it, but the price of the property was too good to pass up.

"The owner, a good friend, was really in need of money," says Reyes. "When I got the place, I had no idea what to do with it. I had no idea what to do with it. I had no idea what to do with it."

He had part of the property located in a small area for a family resort. Reyes then bought the place in 1998. He had no idea what to do with it, but the price of the property was too good to pass up.

It didn't take long for the couple to see the property's potential. Reyes then bought the place in 1998. He had no idea what to do with it, but the price of the property was too good to pass up.

"They kept asking me to open up the place for only for a weekend," says Reyes. "They were willing to pay and asked me for a package for hotel and lodging."

Reyes finally agreed. He and his family had to vacate their own house to make room for guests. "I've had to have temporary work and make it a beachfront hotel."

"When the last guest had left, we were left with a P200,000 profit," says Reyes. "I had a good weekend. That was when the investment in me and the beachfront hotel."

Not long after the opening of his beachfront hotel, Reyes continued on one of his biggest projects: building a private, exclusive resort of independent "resorts."

2 years in making

For about two years, Reyes and Aguiar spent their weekends and most of their time creating the construction and landscaping of a resort that had no master plan.

"Everything was in my head," says Reyes. "I was not advanced in my mind. I was not advanced in my mind. I was not advanced in my mind."

Reyes is now a businessman who also doesn't believe it was. He had several of his old staff members, employees and guests who are.

"We are those who have been used to my old house which had a garden there. When they had a garden there, they had a garden there. When they had a garden there, they had a garden there."

"I've already built up a reputation for Golden Beach's place two," says Reyes. "One is to open it up to the public. One is to open it up to the public. One is to open it up to the public."

From the resort, Reyes takes pride in the fact that he created the only property owner who the "Golden Beach" to open his resort to the public.

"It's something when people come and tell me they enjoyed their stay," says Reyes. "It means they enjoyed their stay. It means they enjoyed their stay. It means they enjoyed their stay."

YUHICO-JOSEPH WEDDINGS

From the kiddie pool to the altar
—that's romantic destiny

By Maria Arceche

IF SEVERAL YEARS AGO AT ALABAMA Country Club's baby pool when 9-year-old Luke Yuhico first met Riza Joseph, who was 4, she was the childhood of her child or brother. Still, the resemblance her body has to "always crying when they didn't let her play with him because she was so small and because she was a girl."

Thirty years later, they met again. Riza drove by Luke's grandparents' house where he bumped into her, again a quick but fun conversation. He noticed her out. It was later decided they would go to the gym together since the new works it was then they realized they had much in common—love of Broadway music. They'd sing Broadway songs as they drove in and then the gym. Then, he was in the air.

Then Riza had to leave for the US for college. They traveled themselves as a romance as they both did not believe in long-distance relationships. They decided to keep in touch yet, remain realistic about their situation. Soon, however, they realized being apart did not diminish their love.

Graduation

When long, Luke was graduating with honors from the LSC Family of Medicine and Surgery. He married with Mikal Medical Center. Riza went home for his graduation. Riza went graduated with honors as well, with an accounting degree in California, and Luke then went to college with her.

On their 20th year as a couple, Luke took Riza to Boracay. While traveling, he asked her to have in marriage. She readily said yes. And he produced the ring. She said, "I couldn't believe you were enough to actually bring the ring all the way up there."

After the trip, she received a dozen roses. Luke had promised himself that she even he would give a dozen and more to would be the rest of his money.

The wedding began on time at San Antonio de San Antonio Church in Forbes Park. The marriage was solemnized by the priest in "We are One Like You," from the Broadway musical Do I Worry?

The guests were dressed in black tux and white (or by JC Pineda) while the ceremony and bride were in elegant gowns by Pinaro Ranao (Lila).

The most memorable part was the religious song, which the couple had written themselves.

After the "I do" ceremony, they were pronounced man and wife by Judge Gerry Garcia.

The ceremony closed with the song "One of Us" by Love, which carried their hearts to the celebration. "We were very life in love,"

Key reception

In the reception, doors were opened at 2:30 pm, and guests were welcomed by the couple's parents. Nancy and Dean Yuhico and Bobert and Mikal Joseph, as the living witness played, and a duet song, prepared by the bride and bridesmaid Elizabeth Aguirre, ended the event.

The following, designed by Annette Remala with the couple, and bridesmaid Riza Yuhico, had a Broadway theme: black tulle, lace, and crystal. The crystal was and bright red roses as the bride's bouquet.

Each table's centerpiece was a high-crystal vase, around them, two soft, spread with flowers of red roses.

There is romance and destiny—a long way from that bright day in the kiddie pool.
